Why Overfilling a Fridge is a Bad Idea

- Air Circulation Gets Blocked-a fridge works best when air can flow freely around the food.
- The Fridge Struggles to Keep Cool-the cooling system has to work overtime to keep everything cold
- Poor Organization Leads to Wasted Food-you might forget about certain items or they get buried under a pile of food
- It Can Cause Odors-with food packed in, the chance of spills or leaks increases
- Higher Energy Bills-the cooling system has to work harder to keep the temperature consistent
- Compressor Overload-when overfilled, the compressor has to work harder than usual
- Uneven Cooling-overfilling can cause uneven cooling, especially if the air vents are blocked. Certain areas might be too warm, while others may be too cold
